I. COMMITTEE REPORTS

A. Library: Mike Frank 243-7645

Terry Becker reported that the inventory is half finished. All books which have been checked out should be returned to AMH so they may be included in the inventory. Thanks again to Peggy Michaelson for her help in organizing the library.

B. Hiking Committee: Bill Wakeland

Hiking committee members are Bill Wakeland, John Nevin, Don Hansen, Doug Gerke, and Marty Bassett. The committee is planning more trips this year, so they will not be as crowded. Leaders are still needed for hikes. Members are encouraged to fill out the trip questionnaire as well as the membership directory questionnaire.

Four trips were announced for the first two weeks in April, sign-up sheets were available at the break.

Bill discussed the "General Rules For MCA Sanctioned Hikes" which are published in this issue. Members are encouraged to review these rules carefully.

C. Executive Committee Meeting:

Held March 14

Discussed proposals for establishing guidelines for officially sanctioned club trips. Passed guidelines offered by hiking committee.

Discussed possible involvement in Great Alaskan Sportsman Show, to be held in the Sullivan Arena on April 19, 20, and 21. Committee voted not to support club participation because of its commercial venture and difficulty getting support from members during Easter weekend.

Discussed need for a register of hiking trip leaders.

Mark Findlay said he would organize a leadership seminar.

II. OLD BUSINESS

A. House Bill 110.

The bill to terminate funding of the Avalanche Schools was discussed by Mark. He read letters by Senators Patrick Rodney and Bill Kelly who are in favor of the schools and reported that they received strong support in the Senate Finance Committee. The current status of HB110 is unknown.

B. Membership Directory

60 questionnaires have been returned. Members are encouraged to complete as soon as possible.

III. NEW BUSINESS

- A. Rick Severn, 1983 President of MCA was presented with an ice axe. Rick left a sign-up sheet for MCA members with children who would like to organize outings.

B. SCREE Meeting

A meeting of people involved with the production of the SCREE was held March 6. The deadline for all materials will continue to be the 25th of each month for the following month's issue. MCA membership participation is encouraged and members with articles of trips or artwork can contact Marty Bassett or Mark Findlay. Thanks to Dayle Sherba for her work at typing the newsletter. Dayle was given a one year membership to MCA for her help.

IV. ANNOUNCEMENTS

A. Tim Neale made the following announcements:

1. Ad Hoc Hut Committee meeting will be Monday, March 26, 7:30 at Shenanigan's.

2. The Nordic Ski Club is planning to build a facility near Eagle Glacier and needs more people to help. Call Tim at 274-4953 for more information.

3. Chugach State Park volunteer program is looking for people to assist this summer with trails, campgrounds, and a visitor's center. A meeting is set for April 17. Call Tim for more information.

4. Persons interested in bringing refreshments to the meetings call Tim.

B. Thanks to Willy Hersman for his slide show on Mt. Spurr.

C. Thanks to Sam Dunnagan, Anne Leggett, Dan O'Haire, and Marcia Bandy for the refreshments.

The Meeting was adjourned at 8:05.

Respectfully submitted,

Eileen Cavanaugh, Secretary

Spring and Early Summer Hiking Schedule

GENERAL RULES FOR MCA SANCTIONED HIKES

(April 1983 Scree, amended)

1. Proper equipment is required as follows:

Day Hikes	Additional for Overnight or Special Situations
Compass & whistle
Raingear that works	Down or synthetic equivalent
Warm clothing (not cotton)	sleeping bag
Hiking boots	Tent (or prearranged sharing)
Sunscreen & dark glasses	Sleeping pad
Mosquito dope	Stove (if need to cook or melt
Water	snow)-fires usually prohibited
Energy food	Adequate food for extra day
Fire starter	Dry clothes, socks, headgear, gloves
First aid kit with moleskin	Stream crossing footwear
Pocket knife	Climbing or winter gear if specified by leader

2. No dogs are permitted on MCA hikes (among the reasons are bear problems).
3. The leader's suggestions are to be followed. Do not go off alone, return or rush ahead without his (her) permission, and don't ford a stream before the leader assesses the situation. Remember, this is a club hike and the leader must know where all hikers are.
4. All hikes commence at UAA Sports Complex, the west entrance, unless otherwise instructed, at a time determined by the leader.
5. You must be signed up on a trip roster (club meetings) or through contact with the leader to accompany a club sanctioned hike-or take your chances on being asked not to go.
6. When carpools are arranged, please plan to pay the driver your share without his (her) asking you. Generally, $5 for shorter trips, $10 to $20 for longer ones.
7. If at the last minute you find you can't go, please let the leader know both for transportation planning and so someone else can go. If you are a leader, help find a replacement.
8. Total number of hikers on club sanctioned hikes:
Minimum: 4 (for safety reasons)
Maximum: leader option, depends upon the trail and campsite conditions, but generally limited to 12 in trail-less areas or State and National Parks (for environmental reasons and maintain a wilderness experience)

9. Firearms are not encouraged, and please let the leader know if you want to carry one—it will be leader's option.

Formulated March, 1984 by Hiking Committee: Wakeland, Nevin, Hansen, Gerke, and Bassett. Approved by Board.

Talkeetna Glacier Trip

(March 11-17)

We couldn't have asked for better weather for our trip. Every morning the sun hit our camp by 9:30 and didn't settle down behind the surrounding mountains until 5 p.m. To top it off, the full moon was out.

We spent the entire time skiing, climbing, and exploring the glacier. Above 5000' the skiing was excellent. Most of us got our fill of telemark skiing during the day. But Rick Maron would go out every evening after dinner and do some moonlight skiing. The climbing was marginal. There was some good wind-packed snow, but most of it was temperature-gradient snow that was constantly settling.

Temperatures ranged from -6F to +20F. In the sun it was warm enough to stand around in shirt sleeves, or take off your shirt for a winter suntan. Every evening a wind would come up and blow a constant 6-8 mph, so dinner was a chilling experience. But the wind usually died down during the day, making very comfortable skiing weather.

The lucky souls who were on this trip were: Marcia Bandy, Sandy Foster, Rick Maron, Tim Neale, and Bill Spearman.

Matanuska Peak

(March 17-18)

One thing about good old Devil's Club. It doesn't get any better in winter than in the summer, just less leaves. Ten of us fought our way past the satanic salad of needles and alders to the sun drenched snow above treeline on our way to 6119-foot Matanuska Peak near Palmer. Originally we had planned to climb King Mt. but constant sunny days had opened up the Matanuska River so that it couldn't be crossed on foot.

Sunny weather had also reduced the snowpack near Mat Peak such that making snow caves was more an effort of the imagination than real shovelcraft. A full moon while lying in a bivy sack is more like it anyway.

On Sunday the group was divided in its choice of routes to the summit. Basically we found three different ways up, but on top we found the same view...from Denali to Marcus Baker, as only Alaska can show it. Dave McGowan, Stuart Grenier, Ron Van Bergyk, Mark Skok, Vivian Mendenhall, Doug Van Etten, Dwight Andersen, John and John and I could suggest no improvements on the scenery.

Willy Hersman

Mt. Silvertip

(March 30-April 1)

It's too bad that Anchorage is such a long way from this area of the state. The Deltas have provided much opportunity for excellent climbing and glacier skiing for Fairbanks mountaineers for many years, and continues to be one of my favorite places to visit for an alpine climb. On Friday we skied up the Castner Glacier under cloudy skys to a point just shy of the Thayer Hut and made camp on a lateral moraine about 2 miles from Silvertip.

A storm moved in that night and the wind picked up to a point where it reminded me of pictures of the South Pole. Snow walls were made around the tents to reduce the flapping of nylon and zippers, but that didn't stop the accumulation of about one and a half feet of new snow. It didn't stop blowing until the third day of the trip.

We packed for a long day and an attempt on the 9450-foot peak on Sunday, April Fool's Day. We didn't let the snowpack fool us however. It was clear to nearly everyone as we skied closer to steepening slopes that with fresh deep snow, a lee slope, poor visibility, and a classic whoomp every few yards that the climb was over for the day.

Ron Van Bergyk, Dave McGowan, Stuart Grenier, Jay Johnson, Rudi and Dietrich Bertschi and I had an excellent 10-mile gradual descent on skis to the cars. And of course the long drive home.

Willy Hersman

Ad Hoc Hut Committee

We will meet on April 23rd at 7:30 p.m. to discuss hut policy and the future of MCA huts. Meeting place...Shenanigan's. If you have any interest in our huts, be there.

Trail Clearing

May 19, 20 In Chugach State Park. Overnighter. Tools provided, however, small brush saw or bow saw would be helpful. Meet at UAA parking lot on the west side of the sports facility at 8AM, Saturday May 19th. For more information contact Tim Neale 274-4952.

Brooks Range Backpacking / River Float Trip

In response to requests for more long trips, we are considering a combination backpacking/river float trip along the John River in Gates of the Arctic National Park. The John River flows from Anaktuvuk Pass on the Contintal Divide to Bettles on the Koyukuk River. We would fly from Bettles to Amiloyak Lake, just above the divide and hike to the confluence of the Hunt Fork and the John River. At Hunt Fork Lake a charter flight would bring boats and additional gear for the rest of the trip. The remaining 100 miles to Bettles covers a particularly scenic area of the Brooks Range and should present numerous opportunities for day hikes. Tentative dates for the trip are July 28 through August 10; round trip transportation from Fairbanks will be about $300 per person. This trip would be limited to a maximum of 12. Everyone should have a collapsible kayak, or similar boat, and at least novice paddling skills in addition to general wilderness skills. If you would like more information or feel you may be interested call Marty Bassett at 694-3917.

BOOK REVIEW

Alaska Paddling Guide---Jack Mosby and David Dapkus--I and R Enterprises,
Anchorage--$7.95

This comprehensive guide to the streams and lakes of Alaska, for the use of canoeists, kayakers, and rafters, represents the collective opinions of a group of Alaskans from all of these categories and of various levels of skills, who have travelled these waterways.

The author's purpose is to help travellers enjoy the richness of Alaskan scenery and adventure, with due concern for safety and protection of wilderness values. There is a tremendous amount of information arranged in very useable fashion. Waterways are reviewed in alphabetical order, with entries under the headings of: Description; Watercraft (type suitable); Difficulty (using standard criteria); Trip Length; Access Point; Topo Maps; and Land Manager. A small map accompanies each entry, with a center-fold map showing each location in Alaska. The introductory section includes discussion of: Access; Boat Rental; Boating Season and Water Levels; Camping Etiquette; Float Plan, with a suggested outline; Maps; Private Property and Historic Sites; Safety and Special Considerations in Alaska; Stream Flow Information; Time; International Scale of River Difficulty; Paddling Difficulties.

A member of the group which helped compile this most valuable guide commented to this reviewer that it was essential for users to remember that rivers change, and that it can be of great importance to check currency of information before setting out on a trip. Information given is current as of 1982.

A copy of this guide has been donated to the MCA library by Jack Mosby, and should be of great value to MCA water travel enthusiasts. Even for armchair travellers the guide makes fascinating reading. Highly recommended.

Ocean Kayaking Breakup Regatta

Sunday, May 13, will be a fun day of events under paddle or sail at Westchester Lagoon. The kayak regatta will begin at 11 A.M., and will be held even if the sun shines!

Events may include folding boat assembling contests, gondoliers races (in doubles), sailing races (with prepared or improvised sailing rigs), a relay and a steeplechase.

Bring your kayak (but don't stay home if you don't have one!), rain gear, a life jacket, and a picnic. If you have a sailing rig bring that or bring materials if you want to improvise a sail. See you all there for a day of sea kayaking fun. For more information call AMH, 272-1811.
